Some of the Top “Blood in the Streets” Opportunities to Consider

Over the last few months, the pandemic crippled the economy, destroying top stocks.

However, with a potential vaccine, those stocks may now be great “blood in the streets” opportunities. All on news Pfizer just said its COVID-19 vaccine is 90% effective.

“Amazing news from Pfizer with 90% efficacy. This hopefully is the beginning of the end of our fight against Covid,” Peter Boockvar, chief investment officer at Bleakley Advisory Group, said, as quoted by CNBC.

Plus, as noted by Pfizer Chairman and CEO Albert Bourla:

“It is a great day for science. It is a great day for humanity when you realize your vaccine has 90% effectiveness. That’s overwhelming,” Bourla said on CNBC. “You understand that the hopes of billions of people and millions of businesses and hundreds of governments that were felt on our shoulders, now... I think we can see light at the end of the tunnel.”

That being the case, here are some of the top opportunities to consider.

Top Opportunity No. 1 – Vaccine Stocks

While these don’t really fit the “blood in the streets” mold, these are two “must own” stocks moving forward. This includes Pfizer (PFE) and BioNTech (BNTX) – both of which are rocketing higher on news their vaccine is 90% effective. That being the case, both companies could see a bigger influx of investors piling into both.

!BNTX Stock Chart

At the moment, BNTX is up another $12 to $104.48. PFE is up $2.85 to $39.26.

Top Opportunity No. 2 – Cruise Stocks

Cruise lines were beaten silly by the virus, with ships docked and unable to move. However, with a potential vaccine, that may not be the case for much longer. With plenty of pent up demand from travelers, cruise stocks, like Carnival (CCL) and Royal Caribbean (RCL) could push much higher from current prices.
Top Opportunity No. 3 – Theater Stocks

On vaccine excitement and hopes of survival, theatres stocks are pushing higher as well. AMC (AMC), Cinemark (CNK), and IMAX (IMAX) are all just beginning to push higher.

Top Opportunity No. 4 – Hotel Stocks

Other leisure names like hotel stocks are pushing higher on hopes life may soon return to some sort of post-pandemic normalcy. Take a look at Marriott (MAR), Hilton (HLT), and Hyatt (H).