

Meet Chuck Hughes

Chuck Hughes is a 'fly boy' through & through... cut from an entirely different cloth from the suits on Wall Street.

Trained on Air Force fighter jets, Chuck soon switched to transport jets to better prepare for a career with commercial airlines. Rising quickly through the ranks, by the time he was 26 he was already promoted to C-141 Aircraft Commander.

Chuck and his 6-man crew supported US Embassies, Consulates and POTUS... evacuated 'friendlies' from Saigon in '75 & Ethiopia in '77... flew air drop missions with the 82nd & 101st Airborne... and transported troops & supplies throughout the world, refueling mid-air... He & his crew also flew numerous missions that remain classified to this day.

This was during the cold war. And in those days when you flew between West Germany and West Berlin, you flew in the Berlin Corridor over East Germany which extended 10 miles either side of the centerline. The East German/Soviet Forces were authorized to shoot you down if you strayed outside of the corridor. Ten miles either side of the center line is not much in a jet aircraft flying 8 miles per minute ... so nerves of steel and precise attention to detail were critical.

Chuck's final military upgrade... before joining the Air Force Reserves and flying commercial airlines... was Flight Instructor & Flight Examiner Pilot. He taught for 3 years and found it very gratifying. Turns out he's a natural born teacher.

The leadership and discipline Chuck developed as a pilot in the military and commercially has definitely served him well as a trader... Starting with his insistence on a 'flight plan'.

Intrigued by the wealth-creating potential of the stock market, Chuck read everything he could find on trading. But, he didn't make a move until he had a solid 'flight plan' engineered to limit risk and ensure what he believed to be the greatest profit potential.

Then, starting with just $4,600 he followed his 'flight plan' to the letter, and earned $460,164 in his first two years!

Being competitive by nature, Chuck couldn't wait to pit his trading methods against some of the most revered traders on the planet... and he won over and over again!

Publishers, investors, and money managers clamored for Chuck's secret to such extraordinary success. And Chuck, being a self-made millionaire with time on his hands... and a natural born teacher... generously complied.

Chuck's training programs, featuring strategies for creating greater profit potential with lower risk, have empowered men & women from all walks of life to dramatically improve their financial outlook. So, why not you? Call Now: 888-233-1431
